

FOCIE

HOSTESS AT BRILLIANT AND BEAUTIFUL RECEPTION AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

SELDOM has such a beautiful affair been given in Honolulu as the reception by Mrs. Robert W. Shingle on Wednesday afternoon at the Country Club for Mrs. Melvia Shingle of Berkeley, Mr. Shingle's mother. The hand of Ernest Parker was discerned in all of the decorations. They were not only beautiful — lavishly beautiful — but very unusual and elaborate. On the broad lawn where the reception was held, brick-red African daisies were used in riotous profusion. These were arranged in graceful baskets and tied with tulle of the most wonderful, oddly-blending colors — soft blues and browns and yellows, shades of orange, green and amethyst — huge bows of it harmonizing with subtle misty effect of a rainbow waterfall. In the dining-room where tea was served at small tables a treliswork of malle was built about the windows. Great bowls of roses and ferns were arranged about the sides while on each table was a dainty gold basket filled with sweet peas and tied with opal-tinted tulle bows. At the foot of each basket were massed quantities of purple-headed violets and maidenhair fern. A stringed orchestra added the last harmonious effect with its quaint Hawaiian melodies softly caroled throughout the afternoon.

Receiving with the hostess and her guest of honor were Mrs. George Beckley and Mrs. Walter Macfarlane. Mrs. Shingle's gown was exquisite — a creation of white brocade satin with an overdress of gold lace which in turn was lined with green chiffon. The skirt had one of those French little apron-front effects of black tulle caught in the back with a cluster of reddish blossoms. Her hat was of black velvet with beautiful white aigrettes. Mrs. Melvia Shingle wore a handsome gown of Alice-blue brocade with gold lace and fringe. She wore smart gold slippers and a beautiful gold hat trimmed with bird of paradise plumes. Mrs. Beckley was very smart in a frock of rose-pink brocade and charmeuse with a hat to match. Mrs. Walter Macfarlane was in a soft shade of amethyst brocade with a amethyst hat. Among the guests a number of strikingly beautiful gowns were observed. Mrs. E. D. Tenney wore a lovely costume of white charmeuse with dull headed pampas and an exquisite coat of black "Chantilly" lace. Mrs. Helen Noonan wore a handsome gown of black charmeuse with a large black hat. Mrs. Irwin Shepherd was charming in a gown of taupe colored chiffon with a green Persian border and a becoming green hat. Mrs. Nelson Lansing was in Yale blue taffeta made with bouffant hips and rows of little ruffles. Her sister, Miss Ethel McLain, was stunning in American Beauty charmeuse. Mrs. Frank Woods' appearance was very stunning also. She wore a gown of black charmeuse trimmed with red and gold pampas. The train was made with the smart little three cornered effect, each corner ending with a tassel. Her hat was of red with plumes to match. Mrs. William Lymer wore a modish costume of white taffeta with black fur. Miss Ethel Bishop was in blue. Mrs. M. E. Grossman wore an imported gown of gray blue charmeuse with a broad coat of subdued Persian effect. Mrs. James McCandless was charming in white over pink with a pretty white hat trimmed with plumes. Mrs. E. J. Timberlake was stunning in black charmeuse with a black picture hat. Mrs. George Apple was in blue silk crepe sprigged with flowers. Mrs. Thomas Lucas was in black. Mrs. Maudie Phillips was a charming frock of ecru color with touches of old rose and a hat to match. Mrs. St. C. Sayres was in white with a becoming white hat. Mrs. Walter Kendall was in pink with touches of lavender and a chic little hat of black lace trimmed with aigrettes. Mrs. George Wallace was in white with a hat of pink chiffon. Mrs. E. Bishop wore a handsome costume of purple velvet. Mrs. Robert McDowd was very attractive in her gown of white with touches of black. The skirt was made with a minaret overskirt of lace. Mrs. F. J. Center wore a handsome gown of gray charmeuse brocade with velvet. Mrs. E. J. Bodge was in amber color. Mrs. J. J. C. Haynes wore a becoming gown of white linen. Mrs. L. L. McCandless was in taupe chiffon with suggestions of Persian coloring in the border. Mrs. C. A. Brown wore black with touches of blue and yellow.

On the same evening Mr. and Mrs. Shingle were hosts at a delightful dance, the occasion being their anniversary, which fell on that day. Sixty or more couples tripped the light fantastic over the excellent country club floor until the wee sma' hours. Toward midnight a delicious supper was served, and the healths of the host and hostess proposed.

All Schofield at Carnival. (Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence) SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Feb. 20. —The Carnival has taken most of the garrison to Honolulu, the masculine part of it anyway, and there is not much entertaining when the men are absent.

Last Saturday evening Lieut. and Mrs. Neal gave a very attractive dance in the hall of the Spanish-American War Veterans. The guests were masked and in costume, many of which were original and the characters well carried out. Mrs. Whytong not only looked the part, but really almost was one of the leis sellers on Hotel street.

The families of Major Harrison, Captain Scherer and Captain Holbrook are spending the week camping out, near the cavalry encampment in Honolulu.

On Thursday, a son was born to Lieut. and Mrs. Lamb of the 25th Infantry.

The Dancers. That the Thes Dancers are growing in popularity was more than

Mrs. Robert W. Shingle

Lieut. Gano was an itinerant preacher to the life, and delivered a characteristic sermon to the delighted audience at the height of the evening. Captain O'Shea was an inimitable old apple woman, Colonel Member a Hawaiian woman in black "holoku." Mrs. McKinlay wore a very dainty colonial costume. Mrs. Nalle a gypsy dress. Lieut. Rieffer a black and white tuxedo. Mrs. Siner a bewitching little Japanese. Mrs. Jones, queen of hearts. Mrs. Donaldson a black and white yama-yama. Mrs. Black, Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Parker were Chinese women. Lieut. Maxwell and Miss Winans, twin Dutch children. Miss Carpenter, a school girl. Mrs. Sturgis, little girl. Lieut. Beard, clown. Lieut. Andrews, romper boy. Capt. Ennis, cook. Mrs. Ennis, French maid. Captain Frankenberg, cook. Mrs. Kieffer and Mrs. Hopkins, typical moving picture girls on the western plains.

The Cavalry-Artillery Auction Bridge Club closed another tournament on Tuesday, with Mrs. Riezenhausen and Miss Mason, the prize winners.

Dr. and Mrs. Danner were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Siner for the week end.

Major and Mrs. Cruikshank gave a dinner on Saturday, entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Kimball of Halewa, and Lieut. and Mrs. Naylor.

Mrs. Glassford will be a guest of Capt. and Mrs. Benjamin Watkins of Fort Shafter, for the latter part of Carnival week.

Mrs. Preston and Mrs. Hardaman entertained at auction bridge on Wednesday at the Cavalry Club. The prizes were a silver sugar basket won by Mrs. Kieffer, a silver tea pot tile won by Mrs. Donaldson, and a silver smelling salts bottle won by Mrs. Sherwood.

Mrs. Robert Cheney gave a delightful luncheon on Thursday for Messdames Beard, Gano and Nalle.

Mrs. Bailey gave a delightful auction party last Saturday at Castner, entertaining about forty ladies. Mrs. Topham won first prize, a carved ivory fan; Mrs. Kennon, second prize, a pair of shoe buckles; Mrs. Roe, third prize, a five-pound box of candy.

The families of Major Harrison, Captain Scherer and Captain Holbrook are spending the week camping out, near the cavalry encampment in Honolulu.

On Thursday, a son was born to Lieut. and Mrs. Lamb of the 25th Infantry.

The Dancers. That the Thes Dancers are growing in popularity was more than evinced by the large and enthusiastic attendance at Tuesday's affair at the Young — this, too, in spite of so many counter attractions. The dancing world deeply regrets that the one to be held next Tuesday is the last of the dancants and cherishes the fond hope that Mrs. Gunn will start another series.

Carnival Ball.

After everything has been said and done the best Carnival affair from a social point of view was the masked ball on Thursday night at the Armory. Of course, everyone turned out for it — ever since the splendid masked ball given by the Elks on New Year's Eve, people have been looking forward to this night and planning their costumes. Scores more were seized with the carnival spirit at the last moment too late to concoct any fancy dress, and perforce wore evening clothes with weird masks. The Armory was strung with hundreds of American flags, no other attempt at decoration being made. Music was furnished by two bands, Kaal's stringed orchestra of 20 pieces and Berger's band vying with each other to see which could render the most excellent refrains.

Although perhaps not as elegant as the ones worn on New Year's eve, the costumes worn at this affair embodied all the spirit of the Carnival — from the insouciant yama yamas, Pierrots and Pierrettes to the stately Indian and Japanese princesses and the Goddess of Liberty. First prize for the handsomest lady's costume, a suit case, was given to Mrs. Charles Oudan, who represented a silver fish. Her dress was of shimmering silver tissue, with a silver spangled head-dress. Mr. Samuel Searle received the first award for the men — also a suit case — his costume being that of a Grecian warrior. Miss Gladys Peet, a tourist from St. Paul, Minn., was given a nickel coffee percolator as second prize. She wore a Turkish costume of gray silk with Oriental trimming. Mr. C. D. Wright was awarded the second gentleman's prize — a triple shaving mirror. His costume was that of a Chinese mandarin of the twelfth century, of black satin handsomely embroidered, with a bee-hive shaped hat. First prize for the best dancers was awarded to Miss Abbona, who represented a Spanish girl, and Mr. E. Keven, who unembarrassedly impersonated a convict. Their prizes were a cut glass powder box and a thermos bottle respectively. Miss Ivy Beasley, as a scare-crow, was considered the most original and a costume representing protection, the most comic. There were many ingenious dresses and a few very beautiful ones. The masks were especially ridiculous — the more hideous they were, the more satisfaction derived by the wearers. It gave one a queer feeling to behold a grinning skull at the top of an otherwise normal body, gazing at you perhaps with a languid expression that chilled to the heart. Abnormally long noses served as a perfect disguise for some, others whitewashing their faces for a mask. A few fair damsels donned the raiment of the sterner sex on this privileged occasion and tripped blushing about with their French heels as a dead give-away. Five hundred or more persons joined in the revelry which lasted until 1 o'clock. Observed among the dancers were Lieut. and Mrs. H. G. Nichols, Lieut. and Mrs. Frank Apple, Capt. and Mrs. George Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Agee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L'Hommedieu, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lansing, Miss Ethel McLain, Mr. Martin Grune, Dr. L. E. Hooper, Lieut. W. N. Derby, Lieut. Rothwell, Mr. Stanley McKenzie, Lieut. Charles Little, Mr. Bert Clark, Miss A. Orrison, Lieut. and Mrs. H. French, Miss Betty Case, Miss Lila McDonald, Miss M. Harrison, Miss Katherine Winans, Miss Florence Hoffman, Miss Thelma Murphy, Miss Nora Swamy, Miss Sybil Winter, Mr. Watson Ballou, Lieut. Russell Maxwell, Lieut. John Hineman, Lieut. James Uilo, Miss Helen Alexander, Mr. Sidney Carr, Mr. David Anderson, Mr. John Macaulay, Mr. E. J. Botts, Miss Botts, Dr. and Mrs. Jay D. Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Will Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Farrington, Mr. and Mrs. George Angus, Lieut. Charles Lyman, Mr. Guy Buttolph, Mr. Charles Herbert, Miss Ethel Bishop, Miss Esther Kopke, Mr. Albert Horner, Mr. R. Purvis, Lieut. W. E. Dorman, Mrs. Alice Hayward, Mr. Dave Larson, Mr. Robert McCord, Lieut. L. M. Silvester, Miss Sara Lucas, Miss Myrtle Schuman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bottomley, Lieut. Albert Lyman, Misses Bottomley, Miss Marjory Carr, Mr. C. D. Wright, Mr. J. Peet, Miss Gladys Peet, Mr. Will Cooper, Mrs. Charles Oudan, Mr. Jack Atkinson, Mr. R. Searle, Miss Abbona, Mr. E. Keven, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Riggs, Mr. and Mrs. William Williamson, Miss Ivy Beasley, Dr. and Mrs. Clifford High, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mr. Alfred Wakefield and others.

Bridge Party at the Young.

The third of the series of bridge parties given by the artillery ladies of the Army Relief was held on the Young hotel roof garden on Thursday, an even larger crowd being present than at the previous two affairs. The prizes were dainty tea cups from Wichman's and Wall & Dougherty — pretty enough to lend a zest to the gay competition. During the tea hour the two little Spanish proteges of Mrs. Mary Gunn gave songs and dances, one in their native costume and one in Siamese dress. In the receiving line were Mrs. W. E. Ellis, a new arrival at Fort Ruger; Mrs. W. F. Frear, Mrs. John Johnston, Mrs. C.

such dainty articles as French boutonniers, and fat, festive balloons of all colors. Exhibitions and fancy

dances were given for the entertainment of the guests, professional services having been secured for the occasione. A quintet played and between courses and after supper the guests danced. Among those present were

Miss Lurline Matson, Mr. and Mrs.

Herbert Dowsett, Mr. and Mrs. Har-

old Dillingham, Misses Jane Hotelling,

Betty Case, Marie Tyson, Mary Lucas, Harriet Lucas, Wilhelmina Ten-

ney, Jessie Kennedy, Nora Sturgeon,

Violet McKee, Beatrice Castle, Mary

von Holt, Agnes Buchanan, Mildred

Robertson, Nora Swamy, Lady Mac-

farlane, Alice Macfarlane, Messrs.

Alan Lowrey, Walter Marshall, Bert

Clark, George Fuller, Stanley Ken-

edy, Livingston Watrous, N. Cam-

panole, R. C. Goetz, Walter Robert-

son, Eugene Fales, Reginald Carter,

George Ahlborn, Harry Gaylord,

Charles Lyman, Fred Wichman, W.

Card, Jack Atkinson, Sunny Macfar-

lane, Will Roth, Thomas Gray and Ed-

Hedemann.

Note: The telephone number of the Society Editor is 2916.

W. Waller, Mrs. Charles Baker and Mrs. G. F. Humbert. Others observed about the card tables were Mrs. M.

J. Macomb, Mrs. Albert Horner, Mrs.

M. McDonald, Mrs. Walter Kendall,

Mrs. Harvey Murray, Mrs. E. M. Watson, Mrs. George Apple, Mrs. J. B.

Rentiers, Mrs. A. Fuller, Mrs. George

Jamerson, Mrs. M. Phillips, Mrs. E. V.

Smith, Col. W. E. Ellis, Dr. C. Baker,

Capt. John Johnston, Mrs. B. Mahaffey, Col. W. C. Rafferty, Capt. and Mrs. George Hicks, Capt. and Mrs. F.

Phisterer, Mrs. Edward Carpenter,

Mrs. A. S. Conklin, Mrs. Benjamin

Watkins, Mrs. Jay Whitman, Miss

Myra Angus, Miss Lydia McStocker,

Mrs. Ralph Lister, Mrs. F. M. Swamy,

Mrs. Frederick Reynolds, Mrs. A. J.

Campbell, Mrs. E. J. Timberlake and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyser's Dinner.

A very pretty dinner was given last week by Mr. and Mrs. William Lymer at their home on Beretania street in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. Clifford High and Lieut. and Mrs. G. F. Humbert.

The table was decorated with a graceful bowl of gold colored coropais and maidenhair fern, the place cards being dainty handpainted chrysanthemums. After dinner the party motored to the Moana, where they attended the transport hop.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Bellinger entertained at dinner last night at the Courtland, covers being laid for eight.

Mrs. Ross' Bridge.

Mrs. Donald Ross entertained the Army Relief bridge party on Thursday for Mrs. A. Nowell, Mrs. E. Dekum, Mrs. M. Graham, Miss Holt, Miss

J. Soper, Miss B. Soper, Miss Louise

Lucas, the prizes going to Miss Soper and Miss B. Soper.

Mrs. Wilder's Cabaret Supper.

After all expenditure of money alone will not make a party an unalloyed success — it is the time and thought in working out the little details, the ingenious ideas that come only after careful study, the practical understanding of one's guests. The cabaret supper given by Mrs. Arthur Wilder on Wednesday evening for Miss Lurline Matson combined all of these qualities with the added stimulus of youth and good spirits. It was pronounced the most delightful affair of many moons — the novelty was alluring. The guests were seated at small tables as in a cabaret. These were adorned with small gold baskets of flowers bearing the place cards as well. Favors were distributed at intervals during supper and included

such dainty articles as French bou-

tonniers, and fat, festive balloons of

all colors. Exhibitions and fancy

dances were given for the entertain-

ment of the guests, professional services having been secured for the oc-

casione. A quintet played and between

courses and after supper the guests

danced. Among those present were

Miss Lurline Matson, Mr. and Mrs.

Herbert Dowsett, Mr. and Mrs. Har-

old Dillingham, Misses Jane Hotelling,

Betty Case, Marie Tyson, Mary Lu-

cas, Harriet Lucas, Wilhelmina Ten-

ney, Jessie Kennedy, Nora Sturgeon,

Violet McKee, Beatrice Castle, Mary

von Holt, Agnes Buchanan, Mildred

Robertson, Nora Swamy, Lady Mac-

farlane, Alice Macfarlane, Messrs.

Alan Lowrey, Walter Marshall, Bert

Clark, George Fuller, Stanley Ken-

edy, Livingston Watrous, N. Cam-

panole, R. C. Goetz, Walter Robert-

son, Eugene Fales, Reginald Carter,

George Ahlborn, Harry Gaylord,

Charles Lyman, Fred Wichman, W.

Card, Jack Atkinson, Sunny Macfar-

lane, Will Roth, Thomas Gray and Ed-

Hedemann.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. French entertained at a theater party on Wednesday in honor of Miss Mary O'Brien of Detroit. After enjoying the Mayor of Tokio the party motored to Fort

Shafter where a toothsome midnight supper was served.

The officers of the National Guard of Hawaii were hosts at a very enjoyable dance last Saturday evening at the conclusion of an interesting program of military maneuvers. Societly folk from both civilian and services sets were present.

Miss Grace Layman, a prominent young society girl of Oakland, was an arrival on the Wilhelmina this week and is a guest at the Moana.

Miss Layman is a sister of Miss Hazel Layman, who visited in Ho-lulu several years ago.

Mrs. A. J. Ralsch of San Francisco and her daughter, Miss Almee Ralsch, left on the Mongolia this week after a fortnight in the islands. Mrs. Ralsch and her daughter are returning to California where they are very prominent socially, after a delightful trip through

Japan and the Orient.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Swamy entertained at dinner on Saturday night, their guests including Misses Betty Case, Nora Swamy, Rosamund Swan-

zy and Messrs. Philip Spalding, Julian Penn, Phleger, Rodburn, R. Clark and Larry Small. After dinner the party attended the Carnival of nations at the Capitol grounds.

Mrs. A. C. Linnemann was hostess at a most charming thimble tea last week, the afternoon being devoted to can be imagined — to the daintiest kind of needlework. Included in those present were Mrs. Randolph Moore,

Mrs. John Baker, Mrs. F. Chandler,

Mrs. J. L. Whitmore, Mrs. Frank

Coghlan, Miss Tokio Mamoto and Miss Ethel Carter.

Miss Betty Case was a charming dinner hostess on Thursday night at